

Myth vs Legend By Lachlan Symes

The waterboy.

By Nico pestos

THE SLIME FIGHTER
BY LACHLAN BAYLY

THE MYSTERIOUS
CUBE

by Hugo Anderson

The Irish Monster by Archie

The double serpent

By Jack Mihalakis

Yotayia and the crystals by Ollie

The Ghost
By Cooper Mott

Bob v jeff by james tainton.:) :)

The Adventures of Sir Bilby by Alex

1900

6 Blue's Book of Myths & Legends

Into The Unknown.
By Ned.W

The Epic Battle (By Reese)

THE QUEST FOR MANGO
By Finn McGarry

The Trials By Isaac Cuschieri

The war princes by Luc F

THE BROTHER'S SWORD BY ZAC

BOBBI AND RATOR CAVE OF
BLOOD by james.f

Sam Summer And The Titan Of Snakes

By Thomas Stillone

Planet Blob Blob by Luke Bannister

Ancient Gods of Greece By Nick G

The myth
of athena
By edward

Pu-Boom!

By Freddy :)

THE FEEL OF WISDOM
CONORKANE

Phos adventure by seb

By Max Lee
The Dinosaur Evolution

The Irish Monster

By Archie Preston

Isabella Tumfin and her parents, John and Samantha Tumfin are going on their 7th holiday this year to Ireland. The Tumfins are quite a wealthy family with John and Samantha being professional swimmers. On a dark, cold, gloomy winter day John and Samantha decided they wanted to go swimming in St Patricks lake, leaving Isabella by herself at their holiday mansion. Isabella was in year 9 now so she was pretty sure that she could look after herself at home...

Isabella had been waiting for her parents for a few hours now, but still no return. Later on Isabella is still waiting and she's starting to feel a bit worried. minutes later, Isabella decided she had to go investigate herself. As Isabella reached St Patricks lake she needed to look everywhere so she could find her beloved parents. She checked the park near the lake, but she couldn't see them anywhere. At this point Isabella was very worried. She checked the lake but she still couldn't find them. Isabella burst into tears "there dead" she said, But she never gave up! Isabella ran home and looked for clues, all she found was information on something called The Irish Monster that was apparently a strange monster that lived in Ireland, that had killed over hundreds of thousands of people and apparently has been seen in lots of different lakes in Ireland. "Bingo" she shouted, as she cried herself to sleep.

Isabella was done crying. She had been sitting in her house for three days now doing absolutely nothing, so she decided today was the day that she solved the mystery of her parents' death. Isabellas' first plan was to go to the police station so she could explain to them what she thought had happened.

As she arrived at the police station she noticed something out of the ordinary, most of the guards were asleep. "Arghh they've all slept in," Isabella shouted with rage. "I guess I'll have to wake them all up". "Help" "help" "I think my parents are dead", Isabella shouted very loudly. "What was that"? "Little girl," replied one of the policemen. "My parents are dead". She shouted. "And how do you think that's happened?" said the policeman (in a very posh voice). "A monster's got them". Said Isabella. The policeman laughed. "There are no monsters in Ireland," said the policeman. "Now get out of my station." Isabella left the police station in despair, "why won't they listen to me". Isabella said to herself. She had to do this by herself. The next day there were people holding up signs saying Traditional Boat Party at St Patrick's lake at lunch time. Isabella was confused, her first thought was why have they just suddenly brought this traditional boat party at St Patrick's lake. And her second was St Patrick's lake that's where her parents went missing. Isabella knew she had to act fast, so she spent the entire morning warning people about how going to the lake was dangerous, and she thought she had done a pretty good job of it. Well she thought...

As Isabella got home to her holiday mansion she straight away turned on the television hoping to see that the tradition had been cancelled, but they didn't listen... Breaking News! "Hi, I'm Manny Garfield and I have just received news from St Patrick's lake that loads of people have been killed by a monster called the Irish Monster, very tragic". Isabella screamed. "They should have listened to me", she said. But she was interrupted by a knock on the door. "Hi Isabella Tumfin my name is Jeffery Lamfield and you need to come with us". So Isabella answered the door and went into their car not knowing who the strange man was.

Isabella asked the strange man why they needed her to help with something and he replied with. "Isabella I knew your parents John and Samantha very well and as you probably know they had lots of notes about The monster called the Irish Monster, and we need your help because you've probably read most of the notes right? Isabella said yes. "And we are planning on bombing The Irish Monster and we need your help for that". "And yes sadly your parents are dead according to our quality research. Isabella didn't cry this time, she just replied saying, "so how are we going to kill the Irish Monster".

Jeffery Lamfield explained absolutely everything there was to know to Isabella, when they arrived at the laboratory and he even gave her a tour. But they got straight to the point Isabella showed Jeffery all the possible Lakes that the Irish Monster could be in, and after a few hours of research they found him.

The first step of the plan was for Isabella to clear everyone of the streets, while John and his workers prepared a big surprise. Once everyone was cleared Isabella went to the lake mountains, to check if anyone was nearby, but it was all clear. Isabella hurried back to the laboratory and signalled John to drop the big surprise in the lake mountains. 5,4,3,2,1... the big surprise turned out to be a massive bomb and it destroyed the whole lake. The Irish Monster was never seen again and John took custody of Isabella and they became partners in crime.

The moral is everyone has a voice so let others use them and don't ever disbelieve people so easily, because sometimes they might be telling the truth.

The Slime Fighter

by Lachie Bayly

Some school kids from Mount Hill Superhero College went to Lisborn Science Center to talk to head scientist, Patty Burningham. They were going to do experiments on a mixture of cow waste, elephant boogers and soap to make it smell better. Imagine having to get all that stuff?

All of the students, teachers and scientists mixed the creation that was supposed to be the new cleaning sensation. As they were finishing one of the students yelled out, "Is there supposed to be eyes on it? Immediately everyone studied the combination. Their eyes bulged as a green and gooey blob came out of the large bowl. "Hello" said the Green blob. Everyone started running because he looked vicious and dangerous. As the last Scientist turned around, he morphed into a human and yelled "I'M NOT A MONSTER" to get everyone's attention. Everyone turned back and saw him transform into dragons, snakes and even a frilled neck lizard.

In just a couple months of helping people, Slime was announced the 1991 best person award and was guaranteed a job from the Australian Superhero Force. He was going to be the main trainer at the academy. He was overjoyed, but he knew he had to thank the scientists, students and teachers for accidentally creating him. One of the teachers said, "you could become the main Superhero at the ASF". That made him feel very satisfied with himself. He got toured around the facility and was shocked at how much machinery was in the holding bay. Sergeant Jared Vangee explained that "Australia was number seventeenth in military supplies." "I thought they would be number one," said Slime. "USA has ten times the supplies as Australia" explained the sergeant. "He was stunned."

Following the tour, he had his first training session with kids, whose parents were former superheroes from ASF. He taught them karate moves and taught them wrestling moves. Bill got someone in a chokehold, but Holly shimmied out of it and got him in a leg hold. He even let them play bullrush at the end and let all the parents play. The parents were in and they had to stay stationary so it wasn't unfair.

As they were finishing the game of bullrush, an alarm went off, Ding Ding, Ding Ding, Ding Ding. Sergeant Jared Vangee, said if one alarm goes off it is a big board meeting with everyone working at ASF was to be in attendance and if a second alarm went off it was a drill and if the third alarm went off it is an emergency. Everyone piled onto helicopters, tanks, submarines and planes. There were also boats surrounding Australia that ASF decided to put there. Slime didn't know what was going on, but he was directed on a helicopter. One of the nurses told him that aliens were invading and everyone from the force was in action to defend Australia. She also said that the Prime minister will ask for help in a statement.

Paul Keating stated “NADO allies, Australia is a part of NADO, I am shocked that you’re not sending help to our beautiful continent. I am now asking you to send soldiers from your force. If these aliens take over our Continent, they may take over yours as well. Even other countries should help us too, please SAVE AUSTRALIA.” One hour later the United States announced that they would send some soldiers to Australia and have houses to hold Australians that were evacuating, but would supply nothing.

Spots (the type of aliens) have many resources and have space ships, guns, planes and helicopters. Their one weakness is that they don’t have ground threats (despite from guns), so Australia knew they were going to attack from the sky, which meant it was going to be a sky fight! Australia lined up army planes and helicopters. They told slime and other superheroes to fly and meet all of the spaceships, their spaceships were dark purple and had massive tentacles to suck you into the ship, it looked like a flying octopus!

Straight away about twenty little spaceships went at all the superheroes, five out of the twenty remained as slime dominated all of them by morphing into a dragon and burning them to a crisp. After that a green alien came out and ran like lightning around all the superheroes, but Slime quickly put an end to that, by turning into an octopus and smushing them together. One of the other superheroes came back, he said one of the nurses helped him fix his cuts and bandaged his wounds.

After that they came up against the big spaceships, there were three of the spaceships with long tentacles, the size of 3 grown up whales. Quickly, more people came to help with jetpacks on and almost everyone of those were evaporated in seconds. Slime turned into an ant with wings and nibbled on the arm of one of the spaceships like a beaver when they see grass. The tentacles of the spaceship swayed around in pain and it fell from space.

All the other two spaceships were very angry and destroyed all the other superheroes and volunteers. Slime was the only one left. He was about to surrender, when other nations showed up with big planes and helicopters and guns and they all shot the two remaining space stations. Nothing happened, so slime burnt one of the space ships until it was tiny enough to carry. The last spaceship was alone and decided to surrender and slime freezed it and carried it back to a different planet to stay.

Slime thanked all the nations for helping him and his country from being invaded. All the Military soldiers said that, “it was a pleasure helping him and his country.” Australian citizens returned from countries that were holding australians. The prime minister announced that Australia was saved and thanked all the nations personally. Australia was back to normal and was safe.

The moral is to always help people even if they can’t offer something back to you, like in the legend when the nations helped Australia from Aliens.

The Water Boy

By Nico Peshos

Long long ago in ancient China, there was a water boy who lived in a small village. Every day he would go up to the well and get water for all the villagers, but he felt that he needed more in his life, instead of just waking up and walking to the well to get the water.

One day a story from a distant group of travellers came to the village and told them about a Heart of Life, high up in the mountains, that could turn any mortal immortal with a single touch, but carries a curse for whoever touched the heart will have unimaginable punishments.

The next day the water boy grabbed the buckets and went to the well as usual. But on the way to the well, he saw a group of villagers surrounding the travellers, he went over and heard about the story he was so excited that he didn't hear about the curse he then ran off to go pack for his journey.

He left then and there to search for the Heart of Life, all the villagers tried to stop him but he was desperate he shoved them away and set off for the journey ahead. He started scaling the mountain after a while. He was already about 200 feet up, his fingers were icy and weak, he felt as if his body was crumbling, he felt as if he had already died.

When he felt like just letting go, and then he saw a cave in the mountain just above him and he used the little energy he had left to get to it and in that cave there it was, the Heart of Life he hobbled over and grasped it he felt a blast of energy and he felt like a god but then he felt cold, colder than ice.

As he tried to leave the cave his body would feel excruciating pain, leaving him weak. So he had to live in the ice-cold cave for the rest of his life. There was no food or water or warmth, only suffering; he couldn't die, his life was ruined, and his biggest regret was not listening to the curses. Some people believe that he is still there but no one will ever know.

The end.

Myth vs Legend

By Lachlan Symes

One fine day Mr Wilson was on his daily peaceful walk, sometimes he brought his neighbour's dog and this morning he did, Mr Wilson is a legend. On this morning the dog started to bark at a cat through the cold ice windows of Uranus, the cat he was barking at is owned by the mad young man named Sir Crab, Sir Crab is a myth. Sir Crab didn't notice until the cat started scratching the window, Sir Crab came outside to chat to Mr Wilson.

Sir Crab said Mr Wilson shouldn't walk past his house and take a different route but I said there is no point and there will not be a better route because Uranus doesn't have a lot of directions, routes and safety. But Sir Crab said if I walked past one more time he would make an argument between us and he said he would win 100%. So he just ignored him and went on with his day, had much more important things to do and plus work and his new job he signed up for at the IT centre. Sir Crab is just a lonely guy with nothing else to do then watch Netflix and Youtube and work from home all day.

Sir Crab was looking through his window the next morning just to catch Mr Wilson walking by, about 20 minutes in Mr Wilson walks by on the other side of the road but Mr Wilson suddenly knocks on someone's door, Sir Crab is too lonely to know anyone in Uranus. All of a sudden walks out Mr Wilson's friend, but Sir Crab doesn't know that. So they chat for fifteen minutes and Sir Crab takes a couple of photos of them for no reason. Sir Crab goes back to his work and can't stop thinking about Mr Wilson and what to do about him but Mr Wilson is confused about why Sir Crab cares about him walking past his house.

Sir Crab followed Mr Wilson back to his house and he said "I have been really mad at you so I declare you to come to court with me so I can prove you are doing something wrong, we will be meeting at court in exactly one week, if you win I will stop bothering you. "SLAM!", goes the door as Sir Crab leaves Mr Wilson's house. Mr Wilson has no choice so he starts to prepare his arguments and what he will accuse Mr Wilson. Mr Wilson then paid a legend to do a for a lawyer to help him argue in court, I'm very positive that Sir Crab will have a very good legend so it is up for a challenge.

It is now a week later and Mr Wilson and Sir Crab are ready for the debate, they both had to drive 50 minutes to the nearest court in Uranus so neither of them wanted to drive that long to lose. It was about 12:30pm when Sir Crab left and Mr Wilson left at 12:45pm, Sir Crab arrived first and started to talk with the judge and said "I really don't want to lose this I will give you 20$ to make my win chance higher". The judge agreed and Sir Crab was stoked but this could be a big mistake. When Mr Wilson arrives he speaks to Sir Crab about the agreement if Mr Wilson wins he is free to be bothered by Sir Crab but if Sir Crab wins Mr Wilson is not allowed to walk past his house bothering him.

They both walk into an empty crowd, it's not that much of a surprise because Uranus's population is very small. The judge looks them straight in the eye as they walk to their seats with their legends. Sir Crab legend looked about as good as Mr Wilsons with a sheet of paper with different arguments and answers. The judge says "What is the problem between you two", Sir Crab says "this gentleman keeps on bothering me on his morning walk". Mr Wilson argued "No I am just minding my own business and he wants me to stop what makes me who I am because he has nothing else to do. Sir Crabs legend said "no his dog was barking through the window and it was disturbing him from doing his work. Mr Wilson's legend said "It isn't like he has any control of the dog and it was not even his dog it was the neighbours dog". Sir Crab said "It doesn't matter if it wasn't your dog you are still disturbing me and everyone next to me". They argued for about an hour and the judge said "STOP" Mr Wilson you have won and Sir Crab you are under arrest, "WHAT", yelled Sir Crab. The judge explained you are being arrested for six months for giving the judge money for more chance of winning. So Mr Wilson you win and can go home.

Mr Wislon went home in peace knowing he won't be bothered by that loser anymore so he decided to celebrate with his mates so they came over to his house and went on a boat and caught all kinds of crabs and had them for dinner. They listened to music and danced and all kinds of fun stuff.

Meanwhile Sir Crab was sent to a glacier and everyday a massive crow would eat his liver and by the next day it would grow back to be eaten again. He will be released in six months time but until then he is there facing his punishment.

THE MYSTERIOUS CUBE

BY HUGO ANDERSON

Deep in the fires of hell there was a workshop and in that workshop was a dormant cube. None of the gods knew what it was, no one did except for the black smith, he designed everything for the gods but they didn't ask him to build the cube. He was banished to a realm of nothing, to starve and Zeus put the cube on earth buried under ice. 100 years later the ice had finally melted. The dark crusty layer broke off and under it was a bright clear blue cube with waves crashing on each side

In a nearby mining village called Phandalin 2 miners saw a blue light coming from a cave. It was light with wavy lines so they told the king. He was a bad man and a horrible ruler, he sent some guards to check it out, when they went they saw nothing just a dark empty hollow cave. The news spread as quick as covid on a plane and 3 travellers heard about it, Raymond, Jacob and Liam Jacob was just a villager in the town, Raymond was a former knight with shining armour and a rusty axe, Liam was a high paid assassin for the king. They were incredibly eager to know what it was and what was happening in the mine.

So the adventurers went to the trading shak to get armour and weapons, all still shining in perfect condition but they saw a bright yellow glow coming from the cave. It was fading into gold and the 3 warriors in shining armour went in to check it out. They were thinking of finding orcs, goblins and other dangers but instead they found gold, precious crystal, diamonds and silver. Raymond looked at the gold on the floor suspiciously. He raised his bright, shiny silver battleaxe and sliced the gold in half. The sound echoed through the cave. IT WAS PURE, throughout the inside of the gold it was shiny and even real. Liam looked at the gold he suddenly had an idea

The next day Raymond heard stomping outside he looked they were training for something, Raymond didn't know what but he knew it was bad that much soldiers training meant something was bad he woke up jacob but liam was gone but there was a note on his bed saying "I am sorry the cube has the potential to make us the richest kingdom in the world jacob new liam betrayed them and told the king, raymond sent him to warn another village called grandle in hope that they would help destroy the cube when jacob arrived he told the king everything, the king said he would help but secretly he only wanted the cube.

The king raised an army within hours, then he set off, while that happened phandalins army prepared to capture the cube. The king of phandalin would do anything to get the gold and riches. When the grandle army came it was almost too late. The army was partially in the cave and he growled "stop that cube belongs to me" Jacob could tell there was going to be a war. It was a vicious battle, swords were slashed, arrows were flung and many men and women were killed but in the end only the 2 kings were left both bloodied with battle scars, Liam was with the king of phandalin but raymond and jacob were with the king of grandle. Raymond whispered to Jacob "destroy the cube I will deal with liam"

Jacob rushed to the cave as Raymond threw an axe at Liam to stop him. The kings gathered enough strength to bring their swords up for one last battle for the kube. Each king had strong armour so the sword wouldn't penetrate it but the king of Phandalin found an opening there was nothing protecting his opponents neck he drove his bloody sword through the other kings neck. He pulled the sword out and blood sprayed everywhere the king rushed to the cave.

Liam snarled, "You're too late! My king is heading to the cave." Suddenly they heard Jacob's scream coming from the cave. Raymond gathered all the strength in his body. He pushed Liam away and looped his head right off and rushed to the cave. The king was ready to kill Jacob he was holding him by the neck with his sword to his face. the king said "give up and leave or I kill him". "Don't do what he said," Jacob said nervously. Suddenly there was a light ping sound then a piece of gold hit and knocked out the king. "That solves one of our problems but how do we get rid of the cube?" Raymond said we just have to leave it here and make sure no one uses its power. Jacob touched the cube with his bloody hand. A thick red crust took over the cube and the 2 warriors spent the rest of the day burying the cube in dirt, gravel and rocks.

The end

Yotayia and the Crystals

By Ollie King

Many years ago on a large island at the top of the earth. A battle that would shape the earth we all know and love would soon be beginning.

On a lovely day in the tropical island of Toha, Yotayia was preparing his final speech to try and become president of Tree Town. Tree town, Mountain town and the beach dwellers were the three cities in Toha. Tree town and Mountain town did not have the best relationship.

Yotayia was up on the stage getting ready, and then he spoke...

After Yotayia Finished his speech the crowd went wild "WOOO" one said. It was the best speech they had ever heard. Yiaia won the election by a landslide. As his first degree of presidency he declared that for the protection of the country they needed to get crystals from the crystal caves so that they could forge them into weapons to defend from invaders.

East of the tree town lived the peaceful beach dwellers. The beach dwellers had not had war for longer than any one can remember. Yotayia knew that the Mountains were eager for crystals and did not fear war so he knew making an alliance with sand was necessary.

Yotayia made the hard decision to send beach and tree people and all troops to make the gruelling journey to the crystal caves. The mountains had already set out on their journey to the caves. The mountains. Because the mountains were much closer they arrived much earlier than the others. When the mountain people arrived they could not believe their eyes.

The crystals glittered like stars in the night sky, even the rocks were beautiful with not even one bump on the top. They were as soft as silk and as strong as diamond but when you touched them they moved away. The mountain people were confused, "are they alive," they thought. Then suddenly one of the rocks moved into a massive crystal warriors.

It ROARED. The mountain people started to scream, the evil governor general said "take the crystals and run." All the people took crystals and ran but the soldiers stayed back to fight the crystal warriors. They stayed there until they had to retreat.

After they safely secured the crystals in the mountain village they gave them to their master blacksmith to forge them into deadly weapons that with one touch could disintegrate anything except for a titan.

After hearing about what happened to the mountains in the crystal caves Yotayia decided that he should bring his army to the mountains so they could negotiate. When he arrived he looked to the back of his great army to see what looked to be a 15-foot big bulky sandman. He immediately asked someone and they said he was a sand titan, Yotayia was more confident with his new found information.

When the mountain army walked out Yotayia realised they didn't get the peace memo. The army started charging into battle. While the violent battle went on Yotayia and the sand titan made their way to parliament house. When they were finally about to get the crystals Togan dived from above wielding the sword made out of crystals, Tongan struck but the sand titan stopped the sword and turned it around disintegrating tongan.

Yotayia retreated with the stolen crystals and his army. They used the crystals to make a protective bubble around the island which is why no one has ever found Toha island.

Double Serpent

By Jack Mihalakis

“And that’s the end,” says Bob [Jeff’s dad]. “Please one more time, I’ll invite Charlie over,” says Jeff. “Fine” Bob agrees. Charlie crosses the sandy path to reach Jeff’s house [Which is on the other side of the old village] This village is connected by one long sandy path with houses on either side of the path. Charlie is 17 years old, has Brown eyes, blonde hair and has a lot of freckles on his face. Jeff on the other hand has brown hair, blue eyes and is about 1 inch taller than Charlie. Charlie knocks on the door to see a man that is a lot taller than him black hair, brown eyes, a long beard and is wearing hand-down clothes. “Hi Bob nice to see you again,” Charlie says “You too” Bob replies. “Those new buttons that you press to signal someone work really well” Charlie explains. “They sure do” Jeff shouts out. Bob begins to tell the story. “100 years ago a serpent that is black with red stripes, has the pointiest tail ever and is about 5 times the height as me, started attacking this very own village” Bob explained “But one thing that made this serpent none like others is that it had two heads, that isn’t even the crazy part, Bob said “ The crazy part is that when one of its heads gets cut off two more grow in the same place” Bob explained “That’s crazy” Charlie shouted “ It also breathes fire and wiped out this whole village and was never seen again,” Bob said fading his voice. Then Charlie walked home and couldn’t stop thinking about this story.

The next day Charlie was like a jumping jellybean, he was so hooked on this story that he was eager to kill this serpent. Charlie only being 17 and wanting to fight this horrific beast is a dangerous thing but Charlie didn’t care how hard or dangerous it was going to be. “Tomorrow I am going to kill this serpent,” Charlie said heroically. “I am coming with you then,” Jeff said “Ok, meet at my place early in the morning and I will give you a sword from my basement and you can put that in your backpack.

The next morning Charlie gives Jeff the sword and he puts it in his backpack with the handle of the sword pointing out. They go to Bob to ask him for directions or any sort of information they can use but Bob gives them a super-secret map from his ancestor and gave it to the boys. “Thank you for the map, this will help us out a lot,” Jeff and Charlie said. They set off towards the cave where the serpent is but first they got to get past this mountain.

As they walk to the mountain it seems to get higher and higher. They get nervous but eventually calm down and begin the climb. They have barely any water and food. “This is gonna be a hard climb,” Jeff says. “ You’re sure right on that” Charlie says. A few hours later they reach the top with basically no breath. They drink the last of their water and rest for a few minutes. After resting they begin the climb down. “It is much easier climbing down than up,” Charlie says “yeah” Jeff agrees. On the way down Jeff cuts his leg on a sharp rock sticking out of the mountain. “Awwwww!” Jeff shouts. He lays down on a ledge in the mountain and wraps the cut in bandages, he then continues the climb and meets up with Charlie at the bottom.

When they reach the bottom they find an old, wrecked hut. It was getting late so they decided to rebuild it using some wood that fell off trees nearby. They finish rebuilding it and begin to sleep with a thin blanket on the floor so they don’t sleep on wood. 2 hours later it is midnight and they get woken up by a strange sound. They go outside to see what it is and there is a pack of wolves. They are both really nervous but are prepared to fight, they pull out their swords and wait until they attack. Half an hour goes by and they have slain the wolves and decided to keep their meat for tomorrow for food. “Ahggg” Charlie yawns. “That was one ruff night,” Jeff says in a sleepy voice. “You are sure right,” Charlie says. Charlie and Jeff have a hard look at the map and study their surroundings. They figure out that they have to get past a swamp full of crocodiles, which is about an hour walk from where they are. They start to cook the meat from last night. As the meat is cooking their desire to eat gets bigger and bigger and you can see the drool coming out of their mouths. When the meat was finally done, they decided to split it and they both devoured their serve.

A few minutes go by and they pack up their stuff and are ready to continue their journey. They walk for an hour to get to the swamp, as they get there they can see at least 30 hungry crocodiles ready to eat them. “How are we going to do this?” Charlie says nervously. “Umm, Oh I know, see the vines up in the trees, we are going to have to swing our way across” Jeff explained “Ok, well you go first,” Charlie says. “Fine,” Jeff agrees. With that Jeff grabs onto the light green vine with a hard grip and starts to swing across, all the crocs are jumping up trying to snatch him, but none succeed. “Yes I made it across,” Jeff shouts. Since Jeff did it, Charlie believes that he can do it. He grabs onto a different vine which is a much darker green and begins to swing. All is going well and he is about to reach the end when a croc jumps up and gets hold of his boot. “No,” Jeff shouted. Charlie doesn’t give up, he somehow manages to wiggle his foot out of his thick, brown boot and escapes and swings to the end. “Whew, that was a close one,” Charlie says. “I thought that croc was going to end you,” Jeff says.

“The cave is just up ahead,” Charlie says. They begin to enter the cave, they creep in quietly and see dead human bones scattered across the ground but the thing that attracts their attention is the enormous, voracious, serpent looking at them straight in the eye. Charlie is smart and tells Jeff a plan. “We should use this old bow on the ground, light the arrows over there in the corner on fire with the torches on the wall and then you slice the serpent's head and before the two heads grow back I light it on fire so it can’t reproduce them. This serpent has multiple heads so it is going to take them a while. 10 minutes later they’re nearly done with one head left to go but

Jeff sees something strange, the serpent is not trying to fight back it is trying to defend itself. "Stop" Jeff shouts. Charlie aims down his bow. Jeff slowly approaches the serpent and sees that it is upset. Jeff says to the serpent " why are you not fighting us" The serpent replies " Because I don't like to fight people I am here to do good." "What, but you attacked our village 100 years ago," Charlie said. "I didn't attack the village, the village attacked me, I was just wandering around when a village started throwing spears at me, my head got cut off so I grew two back so if it happened again I would still have ahead, I eventually got too hurt and was about to die when a group of people saw me and told the rest of the village to stop but they didn't listen and ended up fighting this kind group of people, in the end, they ended up killing the nice group of people and it seems like they came up with a new story to tell" The serpent explained

"Lies, all Lies" Charlie shouted and began to kill the serpent. "Stop" Jeff shouted "The serpent means no harm" Jeff explained "You really believe this, You are gonna disagree with your own father," Charlie said "No, I just think he just got told the wrong story. With that Charlie pulls out his sword and starts fighting Jeff. Jeff luckily moves back in time to pull out his sword. "You don't have to do this," Jeff shouts. After a long fight, both are really tired but don't give up. Then a colony of bats come swooping down and start attacking Charlie, Charlie has cuts all over him and is about to faint when the serpent uses ancient powers to heal Charlie. Charlie feels better but is shocked " how did you do that?" Charlie asked "This is how I have been able to grow ahead back and heal my wounds" The serpent explains. "I am so sorry for not believing you," Charlie said. "It is ok" The serpent replies.

They head back to the village using a shortcut the serpent shows them. As they arrive everyone is scared and starts attacking. "No, stop!" Charlie and Jeff screamed. "The serpent is innocent," They explained. They held their attack and listened to the two boys and believed what happened, seeing the serpent not attacking them. They begin to apologise for the misunderstanding and build a large hut for the serpent to live in as an apology gift.

Never judge a book by its cover and don't believe everything you hear

By: Jack.M

Bob vs Jeff

[1900]

By James Tainton

This scene begins in the city of Sydney where Jeff is the hero. Why you ask, well he has defeated many bad guys like Johny, Mega Fat Ronny, Joe and Junior Johny. But this monster Bob is twice as big as Jeff the question is..... WILL JEFF WIN?!!!!!!

BOB: this beast is 45 metres tall (and very fat). his razor-sharp teeth could slice through anything (because their metal). His eyes are a bright red colour that looks like they're bleeding in the sun. Oh, and he is a..... POTATO!!! His favourite food is giant potatoes with people mushed up inside the giant potato. And his feet are bird feet. He lives in the city (well under it at least) but not for long!!

Bob always is wanting a bigger home he always begs the Monster leader to go and make the city his home. But the leader always says.... NO!!. Finally, Bob decides to disobey the leader and walks out of the underground messed up home and stomps into the city not with a grin the complete opposite. As Bob is walking to the city he bellows wha haha!! This is the start of a fight that will be long remembered.

Bob comes out thinking this idea is lame but then out of the corner of his eye he sees Jeff charging towards him Jeff is pumped to fight Bob. Bob still thinks Jeff is lame. So he throws a punch at Jeff. Jeff goes flying like a bird soaring through the sky Jeff gets knocked out in mid-air then he starts to plummet to the ground at 43mph and hits the ground hard he stays unconscious for the next hour and when he wakes up the tallest building in the city has been knocked down Jeff's favourite one. There is also a massive hole was Jeff landed Jeff had forgotten everything that just happened.

So Jeff comes at Bob again not knowing what Bob can do. So Bob does the exact same thing he did before and then again and again and again. Finally, Jeff realises he needs a plan. PLAN: Poke Bob's eye so he can't see for exactly 17.13secs then punch him into the sun, there perfect (if it works go back to bed), so jeff puts this plan to work he aims his body at Bob, charges for his eye then he jumps up and pokes Bob in the eye. For some reason it doesn't work, Jeff gets bounced back "gee that guy must have trampolines in his eyes," thinks Jeff.

Suddenly Jeff sees that there is an arrow going through Bob's entire body it must be holding all of Bob's blood in. if Jeff could just pull it out the blood will splurt out and Bob will die Jeff does this plan the 2nd one and rips the arrow out of Bob. Bob quickly starts to die and with the last punch, Bob punches Jeff 3 yards back again and passes away Jeff comes quickly back and yells "I WON!!! And punches Bob into the sun. "Finally that felt good," Jeff says.

MORAL: don't be greedy

By James t

The Ghost by Cooper Mott

In the ghost evil castle hidden in the mountains knowone knew about his castle except for one man named Ryan. Ryan was the only human that knew about the evil castle and the ghost that lived in it. Ryan knew about the ghost because for many years the ghost has been asking Ryan to work for him. Ryan doesn't want to work for the ghost because the ghost takes everything away from humans and makes them suffer.

The ghost keeps on asking Ryan to work for him, but Ryan doesn't want to. The ghost keeps on asking so Ryan thinks about it for a long time but then Ryan made a decision to not work for the ghost. The ghost starts to get really angry that Ryan doesn't want to work for him. The ghost is starting to get even more angry so he starts taking things away from the humans like fire, bricks and other things away from them so they suffer.

Ryan is suffering now because of what the ghost took. The ghost has not asked Ryan to work for him for a long time so Ryan was thinking the ghost didn't want him to work anymore but then the ghost asked and Ryan said yes the ghost was very surprised that Ryan said yes so Ryan went to the mountain where the ghost's castle is. The ghost was waiting for Ryan, they both walked in and Ryan started working. Ryan didn't like it.

Ryan really didn't like his job but the ghost wanted him to stay so Ryan thought he should do something bad so the ghost might want him to leave. So Ryan starts walking around looking for things to break. Then he found a room with all crystals so Ryan looked around but then the ghost walked in and asked Ryan what he was doing. Ryan said that he was just looking around and the ghost told Ryan that they were his powers. So Ryan had an idea to make the ghost angry. So Ryan left the room and came back at night when knowone was around.

That night Ryan came back while everyone was sleeping and went back to the room with the ghost powers. Ryan wanted to disable the ghost powers so the ghost couldn't use his powers on humans. So Ryan had to do it quickly and quietly. Ryan had a look around the room and there were four glass cases with the powers in it so Ryan had to do it quickly and get out of the room. Ryan punched the cases one by one and disabled the crystals he ran quickly out of the room.

The next morning everyone woke up and started working. Ryan was scared that the ghost might find out about his powers. Later that day the ghost had a meeting with all of his workers and asked about who disabled his powers. Ryan didn't know how he found out. Knowone said it was them so the ghost checked the cameras and found out it was Ryan he wasn't happy. So the ghost wanted to fight Ryan so Ryan said yes because the ghost doesn't have any powers to use.

Ryan and the ghost went to the top of the mountain to fight with knowone else there so they had no help. The ghost and ryan start fighting and ryan is betting the ghost. The ghost tried to use his powers on Ryan but they were not working. He didn't know what was happening. But then the ghost remembered that Ryan disabled his powers so he couldn't use them on Ryan to try to win the fight. Ryan was too good for the ghost, the ghost could not do anything to ryan because he had no powers so Ryan won the fight and the ghost disappeared into the sky so Ryan was happy he was gone.

Finally Ryan can go back home and not have someone controlling him.

The Adventures of Sir Bilby

By Alex Kingma

Sir Bilby sighed as the thought of his fathers death danced through his head reminding him of the fateful day that occurred not so long ago. A sword slicing through his fathers flesh like a knife through butter, blood trickling from his chest, it was aggravating. The king had to pay, the endless fields would fall and revenge would be sweet, he did kill him after all.

On his weekly walk to the market he couldn't stop thinking about it , his body was overflowing with anger, eyes fixed to the massive castle cast its shadow down onto the bustling village below. Without thought he began yelling some extremely unfaithful and cruel things that no other would ever mouth let alone speak to such a powerful being. He couldn't hold it in and after hours of yelling he continued on with his day like normal as if nothing had happened at all, but deep down, way down a plan was forming.

The door burst open as a muscular man stomped in, steam rising from his head. This was the king and he expressed his anger in a cold, hard yell "kill him, kill him NOW!" as he looked across the kingdom that was around those thousands of years ago. He called upon the dark worms a massive, now extinct species and told them to kill Sir Bilby at all cost.

The sun a golden coin glimmering with light, sharing it's warm rays down on Sir Bilby but he wasn't happy no, no, not at all he had found out about his sentence and he was furious, his veins bulging through his neck and face turning redder by the second, now not only did he kill his father but now he was going to kill him to, he wasn't going to allow this, soon after his plan went into motion, this plan was too fight. Sir Bilby wasn't foolish; he would need a team, a group of renegades, loyal friends who would not give up and support Sir Bilby at all cost, even in the darkest of times. They too will need armour, the strongest armour they could possibly find, the strongest armour in the kingdom. They would need weapons, the strongest weapons they could find, the strongest weapons in the kingdom. He was ready to finish what he started as every knight should, as everybody should.

While on a mission to map out the weak spots of the castle a deafening rumble came from behind him and his men and the floor below their now shaking feet began to tremble. It could only be one thing: the army of the dark worms. Sure enough, one by one giant worms thrustured their heads from beneath the ground destroying all wildlife in the area. Sir Bilby and his men gripped their sword tightly, removed it with great strength from its leather strap and swung it around violently.

Sir Bilby was ready to defend his dignity with all the might he could muster and with that he began to fight. Sir Bilby and his good friend Sir Theodore cut one of the many worms in half, its clear blood becoming what is now known as the arctic ocean, 1 down thousands more to go more to go. All the others suffered a similar fate, everyone making a new part of the world's oceans but the last two weren't as easy. These two, presumably the leaders, took hours to defeat, they only died when Sir Bilby all joined together and did a massive attack and cut both of their heads clean off, like cutting an apple.

A deathening smash rattled the furniture of the tall castle as in the bedroom The King's angry face became one of worry and despair. It was obvious who this was, he should have known if you are furious at someone would you fight their followers or them themselves? The king locked himself in the sturdiest drawer in the domain but somehow he knew, it wouldn't be enough. Footsteps echoed through the empty corridors, people screaming at the sight of such a sharp sword. Some joined him realising The King's terrible rulings and gave into the fact that he was a bad king. Finally the door squeaked open, they smashed open the cupboard and saw the weak ruler shrivelled up into a ball. The King took one last breath and realised his mistakes he was ready to finish it and walk into the light "I'm sorry." With that, Sir Bilby thrust his sword into his chest ending a life. He had finished what he started, he took responsibility. He walked in a rebel and walked out a hero.

Into The Unknown

By Ned Wilson

On an island far, far away in the exact middle of the world, there were two tribes called Shallow Cave and Gravilen. They hated each other for the simple reason that they had to share an island. They had many wars, but each ended in a mutual call-off. Our story starts one Saturday morning when our hero, Bog, woke up from a massive roar that came from a big, mysterious pit in the upper end of the island, town folk called it the great unknown. Bog lived in the town, Shallow cave with his mum and his great, great grandfather, the great wise old Bruce. Many people came to him for his advice. Legend says he has not moved from his old frail rocking chair in 20 years. Bog lost his dad in the most previous war against Gravilen. Just then Bruce called an announcement. He looked scared and anxious. "It has grown a pain in the backside. We need to send a team out to investigate the great unknown!"

There was a shock among the crowd." who will go" asked Bog's mum Maddie. Bruce stops to think for a bit. But then he replied "You, Bog, Zela and me." There was an even bigger outroar from the crowd." He's 12 "" she's 12" you haven't moved in ages" Bog didn't know what to think After the crowd quieted down, Most people agreed with him because there was a rumour floating around that he could tell the future. So that's how Bog found himself, slashing through the jungle with his best friend, his mum and someone who has not stood in about 20 years.

They were getting closer, the roars were getting louder. It seemed that the closer they got the more exotic things became. It was like a whole new world was forming around them. They saw new plants, new animals and even a few bones that looked like a skull. Bog understood why they called it the great unknown. It was getting darker. What started as one sunny day turned into a raining misty day just like Bog's mood. It was so dark that a flashlight was their only light source. As they trudged along they grew tired and all wanted to stop. So they sent up camp for the night and after a long hard battle with the resilient wind, they got the tent to stay put. It was a cool night but humid somehow? They were all about to doze off when they heard a high pitched ear wrenching scream. They all awoke with a start and were shocked to say anything. Then just like a horror movie, a giant claw that looked like it came out of thin air grabbed old Bruce and pulled him into the shadows." NOOOOOOO" yelled Zela.

They all woke up feeling hopeless." let's return home" said Bog's mum. Bog thought long and hard. They couldn't leave him, could they?" No, we can't just leave him" Bog demanded fiercely." Zela you have been my friend for as long as I can remember, if one of us goes out we all go out!" Who with me!" "I am " yelled Bog's mum and Zela nearly perfectly in tune." I am sure they took him to the great unknown"! let's go.

They trekked up and onward until they reached a massive pit at least 60 metres. "This must be it," said Bog as he started to apprentice life and realised how much he didn't want to lose it." "How are you going to get down," said Zela with a bit of uncertainty in her voice. But a solution would soon come as Bog pushed them down and dived in after them.

Amazingly they didn't die. But they did get extremely wet. When they pulled themselves ashore and gazed up and saw three golden eggs easily worth 13 billion collectively. But before they could lie down and rest. They heard a big splash and out of the water came their biggest rival, the Gravilens and their leader, Rogan, his son Baz, and his wife, Daz." Well well well look what we have here poor old shallow cave." "What do you want Rogan" said Bog's mum." I was going to get some firewood when I saw you and your little team going towards the great unknown. So I followed and turns out that was a smart choice because I'm rich now." Said Rogan looking at the three golden eggs. They all walked closer to the eggs to investigate, but they saw old Bruce lying there looking injured and on the gates of death." Bruce" Bog's mum said with a sigh of relief. While this was going on Rogan and his family ran desperately to the golden eggs like their life depended on it and lifted them up in the air." YES" they screamed. Suddenly a roar they all knew too well echoed across the cavern. A claw came out of the shadow and turned into two claws then a massive crab!

They all turned and ran. But Rogan and his family grab an egg each and ran but the eggs were slowing them down and the crab was catching up. "Drop the eggs" Yelled Zela." No, they are too important to lose..... He couldn't finish his sentence as he and his family got gobbled up by the crab. It had one last look at Bog as though like it was warning him to not come back or he would suffer the same fate. It grabbed the eggs and went back to its cavern." That was crazy" said Bruce. That was the only thing that came out of anyone's mouth until they reached the village. They told the story to anyone that would listen and that story is still told to this day.

The Quest for Mango

By Finn McGarry

Once upon a time there was a skilled archer (and builder.) His name was Boben hood his name throughout all the land everybody knew name. One day Boben hood was playing fortnight with his sidekick and best friend Cappuccino when pineseses Mango walked in and said "Would you boys like some nice fresh mango?" "Yes please." replied Cappuccino eagerly. "Ok." noted princess mango so she went to go get some mango from the mango tree in the mango grove.

A long while later Boben hood began to worry about what prineses mango was so he and Cappuccino decided to go look for her but when they looked in the kitchen all they found was a note saying these words...

Dear Boben Hood

*We have kidnaped princess mango and brought her to our castle.
(P.S If you ever want to see her again you will have to come and take her.)*

From Alexa and the Lion

Seeing this Boben hood released there was something much more important than playing fortnight. They needed to save princess mango from the evil alexa. But before any great gurney thay had to pack thay paced lots of things like a pair of socks, water, arrows for Boben hood's bow and of course food.

So the journey was underway and there wasn't a problem so far which was NICE but then they came across a bottomless pit! "Well that sucks, Let's just go home." seid Cappuccino. "Not so fast." seid Boben Hood "Why don't I just build a bridge." Boben Hood exclaimed and so he did and one big bridge it was.

After a long trip thay had finally got to the castle. When they got in, Alexa started her long boring speech about world domanason and all that kind of stuff. When she finished she sent her robots to destroy Boben Hood and Cappuccino.

Just when Boben hood was about to get smashed to pieces the robots stopped "nooooooooo my only weakness is no wifi!" screamed Alexa and then she exploded. "Wait one minute, who turned the wifi off?" Cappuccino questioned. "I guess we will never know." seid Boben Hood.

THE END

The Epic Battle

By Reese Araujo

The night began, it was the night of the very famous Chinese New Year event being held in Africa. Suddenly, Blue goblin, the very known, evil villain, glides down from his very blue surfboard and starts compromising the famous event.

After a few minutes of terror and destruction from Blue Goblin, he starts to fly around and steal most of the rich Chinese peoples money (there were a lot of rich).

Finally, after about 30 minutes of chaos and destruction, Spooderman, the brave superhero gets to the event and tries to put a stop to the evil Blue goblin.

Spooderman and Blue goblin battled it out for hours until finally Spooderman had him trapped in a strong web. Blue goblin had had enough, he decided he was going to pull out his secret weapon... THE BLUE BOMB. Blue Goblin had pulled it out, destroying nearly a quarter of the event.

Spooderman and Blue Goblin went at each other for so long that it looked like some people that were watching were sleeping. After a little while, the battle started getting more intense, Spooderman was beating blue goblin, then blue goblin was beating Spooderman, then Spooderman was beating blue goblin, it could've gone on forever.

Spooderman and Blue goblin went around fighting around the chinese new year event. (50km long) Spooderman and Blue goblin flew through the famous African town hall. Left right and centre they destroyed really famous artefacts and sculptures of famous african people.

Finally, after so long of battling, Spooderman gets the most lucky web on Blue goblin which concludes with him saving one of the most famous chinese new year events ever! "Take that green goblin, " Spooky says. "We love you Spooky" the crowd says.

Moral of the story: Never choose bad over good.

The Trials

By Isaac

Long ago there lived 3 powerful gods who each ruled part of the world. Earth, Fire and Water. These gods were beloved by humans. They started a committee where all heroes and fellow gods could come to discuss plans. But one day they vanished. People panicked. If the most powerful gods disappeared, no one stood a chance.

“CALM DOWN”, Elephentas roared. Elephentas was one of the eldest gods. “We need to find a replacement.” Mumbling went across the crowd. Some people thought it was a little too early to find a replacement but no one had a better idea. Meanwhile, three 18 year old teenagers called Emiley, Flint and Walter were being called to the palace by the god of messengers, Halo.

As they arrived at the palace of the gods, they were confused. They knew that their parents were the three major Gods but they were confused about where their parents were. The god of trials, Kiro, announced the news that their parents were gone, Emiley was devastated, Flint was upset and Walter was on the verge of tears. Kiro said “I'm so sorry about what happened but there is nothing we can do to help” there was silence for ten seconds “...WHAT DO YOU MEAN YOU CAN'T DO ANYTHING, YOU'RE GODS!” shouted Flint. Kiro was furious, “you Flint, you have attitude.” “You 3 will become the new gods, it only makes sense, you have their powers, but first, you must complete the trial.”

They knew each other pretty well but they weren't good friends. So they set off on their journey. They were told to go stop a beast that they call the “12 headed monster”. They were scared because they could barely control their powers. Emiley, Flint and Walter tried to spend most of their time mastering their powers. Out of all of them, Flint was the best at it.

“Well not like there would be any monsters along the way...Right..” Said Walter. “I would not be sure about that walter..” Emiley said this because there was a ginormous bulldog-like thing staring at him. This monster was the size of a car and had 6 legs. Flint started flames coming from his hand, Emiley started to raise tree roots from the ground and Walter drew his sword, Wave. And so the battle began.

“CHARGE” shouted Flint and they ran at the beast with full power. The monster roared and charged at them too. Flint rammed into the monster with his body on fire, Emiley raised tree roots and tangled up the beast in the vines. This gave Walter a chance to summon waves. They made a pretty good team. That was until the monster broke free and hit Emiley “AHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH” screamed Emiley as she fell to the ground. Walter ran over to her. She had a slash mark on her elbow. Luckily Flint finished off the beast, Then he ran over to help. After Emiley was healed by a bit of nectar, the food of gods, they continued through the dark forest.

Along the way they encountered many monsters but none of them were very interesting. After a long gruelling day they decided to set up camp. Walter was on watch duty and they set in for the night. In the morning they set off at the crack of dawn. They were hoping to complete the trials today. Walters' eyes were red from being awake all night but he said he was fine. They grew more comfortable with their powers. They set off and were very hungry so they ate a few apples from a tree. It became very dark so Flint set himself on fire for some light.

One hour later they spotted a strange purple light, shooting up in the air. They walked closer and realised that they had walked into an old dusty ruin. They all went inside carefully. The three of them raised their weapons. They walked a bit too close and were fired backwards into a wall.

"OUCH" they expressed.

As they got up their heads and thighs screamed with pain. They walked VERY carefully and were trying to not touch anything. This time they did not get launched back instead a voice boomed "YOU CAN NOT BEAT ME!"

Then everything went black.

As their vision started to come back they realised this was the final bit of the trial. They weren't ready because they just blacked out and now they felt weak. Walter looked up and his eyes widened. There was a ginormous 12 headed beast looking at him and the others. Emiley and Flint released too so they got up and drew their weapons.

Now Walter, Emiley and Flint were in a dark ruin with no way out but to fight. They felt pretty helpless. But there was no time to be nervous because the beast just charged at them! Flint dodged the first attack but Walter wasn't so lucky. He got launched up in the air by the beast's middle head and went flying. "Walter!". Flint said in a panicked voice and summoned fire, accidentally burning Emiley's tree roots. Emiley summoned a huge patch of soft grass for Walter to land onto but she didn't need to because Walter landed on the beast's neck and raised his sword.

Walter had saved the day! As his sword came crashing down, the monster's neck came right where Walter had wanted it to and the beast fell to the ground.

"Yes, yes yes" they shouted.

But the adventure wasn't over yet. The twelve headed monster rose, his final form appeared.

"That's not good..." Flint said as the beast rose.

Emiley flew into the air.

"What's happening?" Emiley said.

Flint and Walter did not know but they didn't have time to think of Emily because they also lifted into the air.

"What is this monster?" questioned Flint.

"I think it is.....well I hope I'm wrong but I think this is the mother of all monsters, Delaric." replied Emiley.

Delaric let them down and attempted to step on them but Flint did not let that happen because he burst into flames and ran under its foot. Flint was crushed.

"Nooooooo" cried Emily and Walter.

Delaric was falling down and crumbling. She was FINALLY dead but Flint was a different story. He actually survived.

"Ouch," Flint said quietly, rubbing his back.

No-one said a word and then they ran up to each other.

"I thought you were dead!" Emiley said,

"Don't ever do that again", said Walter.

"I won't" replied Flint.

Back at the palace the gods were watching their victory and the gods of the committee decided that it was finale. Emiley, Walter and Flint would become the new gods of Earth, Water and Fire.

One day later

One day later Emiley, Walter and Flint were called to the palace. As soon as they came in they heard Elephantas shout, “ Emiley, you have proved great resilience and care, I now will announce that you will be the god of the earth!”.

Emiley was proud of herself.

“Walter you are truly a good fighter, you slayed the beasts first form, I now will crown you god of water!”

“Woohoo!” Walter shouted.

“And Flint you are a true leader and a true son of the fire god. I now, with great pleasure crown you, the new fire god.” Flint knew his father would be proud.

“Thank you,” he said.

Emiley, Walter and Flint felt a strange feeling flowing through their body.

“You will now be gods” said Elephantas.

The War Brothers

By Luc Frampton

Back in mediaeval England in an old city called Halberge, there were two twin brothers named Peyton and Henry. Their father had recently died and they both desired the throne so a one on one battle to the death commenced. They were not allowed to wear any armour. As their swords clashed they slowly got more damaged until prince Henry fell to the ground kneeling he lost, Henry waited for his head to be chopped but it didn't happen as he thought he was being spared, instead, he was sent to the worst prison in the city.

When he was in the prison Henry usually kept to himself, everyone did in the prison anyway, so he was usually doing his own thing. His cell was horrible, there was a leak always dripping, tally marks on the wall, a skeleton in the corner and a small window with bars, it let barely any air in so it was always stuffy and they gave him the most disgusting foods in small portions. Henry wanted to escape.

Every day Henry was thinking about how to escape. But it seemed almost impossible he was in the most secure prison in the city; only the worst prisoners were held there. It was like hell. Henry hated it. To better his chances, Henry started a small group he wouldn't tell them yet his plan was not complete it wouldn't work.

Henry was starting to get weak and tired he would die soon he needed to escape. During dinner, he gathered his gang and informed them of his plan. They were hesitant but obliged, after they escaped they would head to the forest and hide there, and so it was set the next night the plan was put into motion. Henry started a fight with someone and when the guards came to break it up he pickpocketed the keys of the guard and when everyone else was sleeping he knocked out the guard and opened his door and then woke up his gang they all quietly opened everyone else's door and when the time came they started a breakout everyone else tried to storm the doors but while all the guard were dealing with that they went to the armoury then slipped through the main vent to the forest.

As they dashed through the grass and roots going deep into the forest their shadows looked like animals but they weren't once they were far enough they stopped. Luckily they got out with a few other people, increasing their numbers. While they were laying low in the forest they started making masks and weapons soon they would make their first move. Two weeks after the prison break a jewellery store was robbed this was one of many robberies to happen they started to have a crime spree. But then it stopped. It was the calm before the storm.

Everything was quiet for a while. The robberies had stopped, but King Peyton knew his brother wouldn't just stop, it made no sense and he saw some soldiers holding some unusual bags of money. This was bad because they could have been bribed over to Henry's side. He didn't know what to do any day; they could attack and the city would be put into a civil war. It was later in the afternoon everyone was getting their tasks and turning on their lights as it got darker. Like clockwork, the bats came out at the same time every night. But something was going to happen this night. "What's that?!" someone said frighteningly while a battle horn was blowing in the distance, "PREPARE YOURSELVES" yelled King Peyton, he and his army drew their weapons they all waited, the sound of marching became louder in the distance it sounded like a giant was outside the door but King Peyton wasn't scared "wait!!" he commanded his troops it was tense they waited until. Boom! An explosion took down the door and the armies charged at each other and the city was engulfed the citizens started running stumbling to get out, there was death left and right and bodies were piling on the ground and during all this commotion Henry was fighting but then he got distracted just for a second then...

Boom! Another explosion happened on the south side of town and Henry was in it. He survived the initial blast but his legs got blown off he could barely move, he tried to crawl out but was met with a wall of fire, he could only watch as his world melted around him the fires kept closing in until. He was gone. Henry's body was not found after the battle; his remains were burned away in the fire. Finally the city of Halberge was put to peace and King Peyton continued to lead the city.

Moral of the story: don't get distracted from important tasks.

The Brothers' Sword

In a place called Ora, there were two brothers called Enitra and Atrinal who were sons of God and Mary, God taught Atrinal to be strong and caring and Mary taught Enitra to be fearless and loving.

Even though their strengths were completely different, they still were brothers and they cared for each other. But even though they cared for each other God sent them on a quest on Earth because all humans on Earth were being attacked by the evil devil and his minions, but keep in mind the devil's minions are good people but they are being mind controlled by the devil. God said for them to go different ways so if the devil and his minions found one and imprisoned him there would still be another brother.

10 hours later, Atrinal was sleeping near a peach tree where samurais used to forge their weapons and teach the younglings a powerful technique called chi. Chi can give you power and the ability to heal people, but Atrinal thought it was just a myth. Even though Enitra believes in the so-called samurais, they were completely different in their beliefs, strengths, looks and even foods. But anyways, later that night Enitra saw something move in the bushes where he was sleeping. He checked it out, he saw a man sitting next to another peach tree with a candle and a sword. Enitra spoke not fearfully but courageously.

It took about twenty seconds for the shadow to speak but when the man did speak Enitra found the voice familiar. It turns out it was Atrinal, Enitra was shocked to see his brother but also mad, before even saying hello, Enitra said, "What are you doing? You're not supposed to be here."

Atrinal was surprised to see his brother but was not like Enitra being rude he actually said hello. but as bad as it was they had to stick together because they were lost, Atrinal was scared but Enitra as fearless as he is was not scared.

At Least 6 hours later they stumbled upon the devil's attacking spot. Enitra and Atrinal came in to help Atrinal dodging and weaving and Enitra making the humans unbrainwashed using chi. Atrinal was shocked and now finally believed in the samurais and their stories, not only that but Enitra was a samurai, in fact the only samurai left in the multiverse. Enitra and Atrinal ended up fighting the devil with no minions by his side but the devil smacked Enitra into a pool of acid. But before he went into the acid pool Atrinal saved Enitra but not himself.

As mighty as this action was, Atrinal still died for Enitra. That put Enitra in a rage. He started hitting the devil with his samurai sword repeatedly until the devil missed a block, Shing! Enitra had stabbed the devil, the devil wheezing in pain said in a whispered voice "I always come back." Those were his final words before dying, as soon as Enitra did this Enitra rushed over to the acid pool, where Atrinal's body was floating and decomposing.

17/3/22

By Zac Johnson

Enitra took Atrinal out of the pool trying to use his chi as soon as possible. But for some reason the chi was not working.

The chi could not heal Atrinal but, God their father had come down from Ora and gave Enitra one of his magic swords. God told Enitra to heal Atrinal with the magic sword and it was working. Atrinal was slowly gaining consciousness. It was a miracle, Atrinal was then standing and then the magic had stopped working with Atrinal completely fine. So the brothers had completed their quest with God smiling and Mary in happy tears. Because she saw Atrinal die and come back to life.

The brothers with both their swords walked up the tallest mountain to be picked up by God. 3 hours later everyone in Ora was celebrating at God's party. But Atrinal and Enitra were sitting next to each other and laughing and talking about their quest. And that taught Enitra and Atrinal to always stick together and in life you need to make sacrifices.

THE END

BOBBI AND RATOR CAVE OF BLOOD

BY JAMES FANNING

Many centuries ago there was a small village in Greece surrounded by mountains and in the mountains where caves hunted by the unknown. At the edge of the village was a small cottage. Covered by cob webs and dead rats then a young man about 20 exited the cottage holding a foot long dagger and an empty sack, his clothes were drenched in blood and ripped.

As he made his way down the grass heading into the forest an ear splitting roar encoded around the valley followed by a streak that came from inside then the man dashed inside. About a minute later the man and an elderly woman stepped onto the lawn. "Thank you BOB, " the woman said, gasping for breath. " No problem, " BOB replied. "Now you better go hunt if you want dinner" she said changing the subject "on it gran" BOB said picking up his sack and dagger running to the mountains ``see ya " Bob shouted.

An hour later BOB was walking up the mountain then he stopped dead staring at a 50 metre giant with a spiky back, clawed feet, slick hair and a skinny tall neck. BOB spotted the beast holding a human. The beast's mouth was open and he was holding the man ready to eat. within seconds the man fell right into the belly of the beast. Then the beast turned and spotted BOB. the beast charged at BOB. BOB turned and ran to the village on the side of the cave carvings wrote 'don't turn back' 'it's the home of RATOR' NEVER MISSES HIS PREY ALWAYS GOES FOR IT'

As he made his way down the mountain reaching the cottage he yelled "GRAN WE GOTTA GET OUT OF here....." the cottage was destroyed. A booming cracked voice spoke over the valley "WHERE ARE YOU MAN THIS HUMAN SAID YOUR BOB" "JJ" said BOB

BOB couldn't believe that the village was destroyed, his best friend captured and gran gone. Hoping that RATOR can't swim.

BOB had travelled to a new land that looked odd but he still stayed and set up a home with a trap door. About a week later BOB found a village and in the village all the people wore tiki masks. The people allowed BOB to stay in the village; they also changed his name to BOBBI.

About a month later at midnight when BOBBI was praying to the greek and the peoples Gods. Then he heard a familia cracked voice "WHERE ARE YOU BOB" BOBBI stood up and hid under the bed as the roof of the hut cracked open revealing RATOR, a massive ape and a humungo lizard. Then the same voice spoke "HE WAS HERE KONG CHECK THE FOREST" then a loud grunt then footsteps dying into the night RATOR continued "ZILLA CHECK THE COAST AND I WILL FINISH OFF THIS HOUSE" BOBBI stomach practically did a backflip. A second later he left through the trap door holding his dagger some rope and a hand glider into the trees then he spotted JJ on one of RATORS spikes.

Ten minutes later Bobbi had swung the rope to the spike that JJ was on, climbed up and cut him free and gilded into the trees. When they got to the village it was abandon and BOBBI and JJ had found the villages, gathered the warriors and prepared for war.

2 minutes later king kong godzilla and RATOR were being wacked by the wack traps the kids made and spears flew into all of the beast's bellys. White pus spude out followed by human bones, banana peels and sea water. When the beasts had been cut open and the village had a feast of banana beast cooked on blue fire and burned by RATORS TOE NAILS.

By Thomas Stillone

Sam Summer And The Titan Of Snakes

Greece, A Cave In Mount Olympus

“Long ago, there was nothing, then three gods called Zeus, Hades and Poseidon. Zeus created the world, Hades created death and Poseidon created land and sea. To help them they created Titans, mythical beasts capable of changing the world, but the Titans wanted more power and provoked the gods. They started the war but lost after the battle. Zeus told Hades to lock them up in Tartarus, a mythical hell for demonic creatures. Hades obeyed and they have been locked in there till this day, but the Oracle of the gods mentioned that one day Serpens, the strongest of the titans would come out and take over. Only one soul, a master of fire can banish them back to Tartarus.” Amanda stated.

“Amanda, when can we leave and explore the world?” he asked.

“When the time comes, Summer,” Amanda replies. She sat back on her hind legs and began cleaning her thick, grey fur. A wolf’s coat can be difficult to maintain.

Years pass by and Summer gets older. He grows longer brown hair. He stays skinny and still only remembers his family by his trusty old compass. Amanda grows a larger fur coat, sharper teeth, but she is getting old. Later that night when they were eating, Summer announced to Amanda, “Delicious food, where’d you find the fish?”

“Oh just down by the river. These ones are very rare so eat up,” replied Amanda. She then began to pant. “What’s wrong Amanda?”

“Serpens, he’s here. My child, run! You need to escape to the Amazon Rainforest. Use your compass. It will tell you the way.” Amanda announced

“But-” Summer was cut off by Amanda.

“Go!” 10 minutes later Serpens arrived and turned to Amanda.

“Hello, Amanda.” he expressed with a cunning voice.

“What do you want, Serpens?” Amanda replied.

“You know what I want, now where is he?” Serpens says with a serious voice e.

“I won’t tell you,” Amanda replied. Shing!

“Pity, pity. Find him.”

“Yes, master.” Some titans reply.

6 months later, “Finally I have reached the Amazon. Ahhh.” Thunk! “Why did I even have to come here anyway?” Roar! “What was that?”

“I see you chosen one!”

“Ahhhhhhhhh! What are you, you large piece of rock, why are you chasing me and how are you ALIVE!”

A giant rock monster covered in moss appears out of nowhere and looks unhappy.

“Just die already!” The monster said.

“Get out of the way!” A mysterious figure shouted as it shot beams of ice out of its hand.

“Who, who are you?” Summer asked.

The figure spoke in a calm voice “Hi I’m Winter” Winter had blue eyes she was dressed in clothes you would wear in a city, she was as beautiful as a waterfall and had a perfect voice.

“C’mon we got to get you to camp.”

The camp had an invisible force field to keep the monsters away.

“Welcome to Camp Titanus. Here we take care of titan blood. Titan bloods are people who have the blood type of titans. These people have the ability to use the element of their blood type. The elements consist of Earth, Fire, Wind, Ice and Electricity. We separate the people with certain elements into a cabin with other people with that element unless you are a master then you go into the master cabin which is the same but nicer.” Winter explained.

“Okay so now I have powers, whoa this day is almost as weird as when an apparent titan attacked me.” Summer replied.

“But the titan did attack you today?” She stated with confusion.

“No, no, no, 6 months ago I had to leave Greece to get here because this guy called Serpens was coming.” He said.

“Wait did you say Serpens?!” Winter shouted with astonishment.

“Yes, do you have like a hearing disorder or something?”

“We need to go tell Procellae at the master cabin!”

Bang! Winter kicked the door so hard it slammed into a door waking up Procellae.

“Procellae, I need to tell you something,” Winter yelled.

“What is it, my child?” Says a man who looks 1000 years old, has great posture for his age and sounds wise.

“Procellae I have found a traveller that has been searching for us his name is summer. I found him outside our base looking for us and worst comes to worst Serpens has escaped!”

“What?! We need to get ready for war alert everyone to get to their battle positions. Also, where did he come from?”

“I came from Grece,” replied Summer

“So let me do the math real quick, hm, ah, oh, uhh, AHA got it we have about a week.”

“What!” Summer and Winter gasped with astonishment.

“Don’t what me, get training before he comes.”

“C’mon just show us your element child,” Procella spoke in a tired voice. The sun was coming down it was so late.

“I’m trying!” Shing!

“My boy looks like whatever you had in your pocket can turn into a sword when you want it to.”

“Huh? This is the pocket I kept my compass in. This means I could’ve used a sword before.”

“Yes my child, but now we return to training.” Fwoom! Crackle! Crackle! Crackle! “Oh my Zeus we should’ve just tried to get the sword out before but now you summon fire! Welp back to training.” A week passed and Summer could control his fire and his sword he could even light his sword on fire but one week ago Procellae told everyone that Serpens would come in a week and he did. Thunk! Thunk! Thunk!

Procellae heard the thumping and said. "It seems like the war has begun. Everyone to your battle stations."

"Ah, Procellae how delightful is it to see you here," Serpens announced with a calm voice.

"Serpens why do you provoke war upon us," Procellae asked. Serpens stretches his neck, smoothens his scaly face and says. "Well you know why, the only one who can stop me is in your army so I'll kill him before he gets to full power. How about we make it easier, my army versus your army."

"What army? I don't see any," says Procellae with suspicion.

"This army!" Rumble! Rumble! Rumble! Hundreds of every type of titan come out of the ground and one earth titan bigger than the rest lifts Serpens and puts him on his head.

"What is that?" Says Procellae with astonishment.

"This is just my little creation I call it Behemoth. It is a rock titan with stronger telekinesis powers. Show them what you can do." Behemoth raises his arm and the clouds part.

Winter says "Is this the power of a god?"

Shhhhhhhhh! "How did he do that?" shouts Summer. A huge meteor destroys all the trees in a 100meter radius and turns a massive circle of the Amazon into a wasteland.

"I will stop it." Procellae says as he uses his wind magic to hold the meteor up. He succeeds and everyone cheers.

"Bravo, bravo really you saved everyone from the meteor but what about the second?!"

Serpens says with a psychopathic voice. Suddenly a second meteor falls out of the sky.

Boom! shatters both of the meteors but then. Fwoom!

"He's fast!" Says Procellae as Serpens jumps and lands a hard hit on Procellae.

"Let the war begin!" Shouts Serpens. Rahhhhhh! Everyone shouts as they run into battle but the Behemoth is destroying Camp Titanus' army and while Procellae is fighting Serpens he can't help.

Summer shouts "Everyone, use your magic all at once so we can land a hard hit on the Behemoth!"

Everyone shouts. "Okay." They all jump use their powers and... Boom! The Behemoth shatters and crumbles into little pieces of rubble.

"How dare you destroy my creation chosen one now I will destroy you!" says Serpens. As he leaps and grabs Summer along the way.

"No Summer," says Winter.

Procellae replies. "Let him be, the result may end up well."

"Chosen one you will be the first one to die to my hands but doing so will not be so easy since you are full power so let me show you my full power. Meet Asmodeus" Serpens shouts as he jumps up and a giant snake leaps out of the ground and Serpens lands on its head.

Asmodeus goes straight for the attack Summer dodges and slices the tail off.

"Yes!" Summer exclaims. "What's happening?" The tail starts to move and a snake regenerates from the end of the tail and a tail regenerates from the other snake's body.

“Did I mention She can multiply?” Serpens psychopathically says. Summer keeps on slicing up the Asmodeus but they keep multiplying and multiplying and multiplying.

“Now Asmodeus go for the attack all of them leap but. Shing! Summer cuts off a fang, turns his sword into a compass, throws it into Serpens mouth then... Shing! Flick! Flick! Flick! Boom! Summer turns his compass into a sword then ignites it on fire and the poison ignites and explodes.

Suddenly all of the titans fade into dust.

“Well, it seems like Serpens strength was also his weakness.” Summer says before fainting.

Two days later Summer woke up outside on a mattress to Everyone standing around him.

“Summer you’re awake,” announced Winter.

Some kids muttered, “Is this the kid that saved us?”

“How is he alive?”

“Hey isn’t he new?”

“Procellae come quickly,” shouted Winter. Procellae emerged from the crowd and said.

“Well, my boy you are very wise when we were losing you did one smart thing and saved us all.”

“Oh, Procellae how long is it going to take us to repair everything?” asked Summer.

“We already have, it took around an hour but we did it and now we have saved mankind and the gods want to tell you something. Replied Procellae.

“Sam Summer. For the good you have done we claim you as the Titan god so you could either live up here with us or stay there?” Zeus asked.

“I think I’ll stay here because the titan bloods are my people. Replied Summer.

“Wise choice,” Zeus replied as he disappeared into the clouds.

Moral: When you are losing, one smart move can even the playing field.

Planet Blob Blob

By Luke Bannister

So one day on Planet Blob Blob gods arrived on the planet and are setting up this mountain and then put up a sign saying mountain olympus Bob jr was just thinking about what was going on, then he just went to sleep. When Bob jr woke up he could not see the sun anymore and this giant person was making the ground green and she brought life to the planet. When he was devouring down his food, he saw that the old, brown, wet planet has now turned into this green, lively and flowery, new pond place.

Then a giant with a lightning bolt in his hand said, "This is now my planet. If you question this statement you will die!" The gods started to make life on the planet: pounds, animales, ocean, clouds and trees. Then Bob jr starts to think about if he wants them to take over the planet. He starts jogging to his friends house and asks if they want to help him stop the gods.

Then Bob jr dashes up to the mountain and shouts out to the gods, "can you not take over the planet!?" The god with a lightning bolt jumped down the mountain. Then Bob jr punched him before all the other gods jumped down. But Bob jr punched all the gods when they landed. Then the god with the lightning bolt called Zeus came sprinting back at Bob jr and his friends held his lightning bolt like a sword ready to throw it at Bob jr.

Then a god froze one of Bob jr's friends. They were scared and one by one, they got frozen. Then Bob jr thought it was over for him but the freeze gun stopped firing he looked up and saw the freeze gun was out of ammo. Zeus sprinted again in with his lightning bolt and swung it at Bob jr. It missed by a mile but it hit the ground. The ground was rumbling like an earthquake. Little did anyone know Bob jr friend walked away... he is called carl. So Carl was gobbing something to help Bob jr.

Carl zoomed back holding SWORDS! Bob jr noticed this but the gods did not. When Carl got to Bob jr and the rest of the friends, he gave everyone swords and then charged at the gods with rage! But then a battle area popped up on the ground around the friends they were taking down the gods but Zeus hit Bob jr friends with his lightning bolt. Then Zeus was about to hit Carl when Bob jr sword blocked the lightning bolt!!

Then Zeus started to be scared of the friends of Bob jr, so he dashed to the mountain with the other gods Zeus was throwing his lightning bolts from behind him at Bob jr and his friends. Then one of the gods made a giant pool of acid and some of the friends fell in! Bob jr was trying to think of a way to get across the acid Carl disappeared again. He was getting "WOOD" Shouted Carl from a long distance also holding nails. So they started to build a bridge to the other side. The gods saw this and Zeus threw lightning bolts at the bridge. Hit some people and missed others. When they finally got to the other side, the gods started to move his body left, right... and some of the gods fell in!.

The gods went back to plan A. They sprinted to the ships where they made more acid pools. But that did not stop Bob jr and his friends. There were only 10 gods left and they started at 30 gods! Bob jr and his friends were claiming his family back! The gods never took anything off the planet again!

Ancient Gods of Greece

By: Nick G

Many years ago there lived a prince whose name was Hector. He lived like any other spoiled prince as he got whatever he wanted. But that wasn't enough for him, as a child he was always taught to respect the gods and good things will come his way but he did not believe that. He thought Gods and humans should be equal side by side. So he set out to somehow discuss things with the king of all gods Zeus.

He starts asking all the elders of the town to see if he can get any more information about how to see Zeus. Until an old lady in an antique shop pointed Hector in the direction of a wise old man, that could help the problem was he was very far away living in a cave all by himself. So in the middle of the night Hector packed food, water and a blanket then Hector stole one of the palace horses and left swiftly into the night. By day it was scorching hot and by night freezing cold. Hector had nearly given up until he saw what looked like the cave the lady was talking about so Hector mustered all the energy he had and dragged his tired body in. Hector found food scraps but Hector was that hungry he was digging his face in and started devouring the scraps. Then out of Nowhere Hector saw what looked like the wise old man Hector had a sigh of relief. "Finally," He said.

He talked to the wise old man and replied, "That will be very tricky but I know a way." There are two girls hidden under the statue of Copius. oh and make sure you step on them one at a time one then one four the trip there and one for the trip back. The statue was back at Hector's hometown so Hector waited until midnight when there was not a soul around and started searching for the girls that could make or break his mission. Hector searched everywhere on the statue from head to toe. Hector had almost given up when he decided to search under the statue. And there it was under the statue of Copius' feet. Hector's eyes glowed up with joy. "Finally one step closer" He replied. Then without any second thought he stepped on one of the two girls.

He was then teleported to Mount Olympus! the land of the Gods. When he arrived there he was stunned to see what looked like Zeus' botanic garden. Hector then wandered curiously over and there it was Zeus' palace. Hector walked in stealthily as he did not want to be noticed. When Hector entered he was stunned to see the four 20 foot Gods Zeus, Posident, Athena and Hermes. The Gods were having some discussion but Hector couldn't figure it out as they were speaking their own ancient language and the Gods noticed him. "Zeus you let a mortal here!" angrily shouted Posident. "Of Course I didn't," Replied Zeus. Zeus then Pinned Hector to the wall with his strength and questend Hector how he got here. Hector said that he was sick of mortals praising you and loving you. Hector wanted that mortals could go to mount Olympus and that mortals can come visit whenever pleased.

Zeus did not like that nor did the other Gods. And enraged Zeus banished Hector to the deepest, darkest part of the sea where he got the trench sea creatures so possessed and deranged to slowly slowly make him go crazy by making him not get any sleep and then slowly, painfully feasting on his body.

"Zeus," said Poseidon, "Did you really have to banish him to the depths?" "Yes," said Zeus, "I created life, I can take it just as fast. I get to decide what I do with humans. They will never be equal to us Gods and that's final." "They can't always get what they want, they will listen under my command and rules."

Poseidon and all the other Gods couldn't stand what Zeus was doing to poor Hector so Poseidon was going to attempt to save Hector. So he set off diving deep down. As he got deeper he started to encounter the trench but Poseidon wasn't worried after all he was a God. The trench noise was defining but he couldn't stop there then he saw a cave. Poseidon knew Hector would be in there and he was. Poseidon took Hector and launched up to the surface. Where Poseidon took him back to his kingdom.

Now prince Hector became king Hector got betrothed and had children. And always tells his children to pray and respect the Gods especially Poseidon for saving their father's life. Zeus never let mortals be with Gods but Hector didn't care he was happy with his new family.

The Myth Of Athena

By Ed Darcy

I was driving home from work on a cold night on Wednesday. After passing house after house I finally got home, I saw something in the window of my house, but I didn't think much of it.

I stepped out of the car. I could feel the cold breeze pressing against my skin as I walked over to the door. I twisted the door open and realised that it wasn't locked.

The floors creaked as I walked by and the house was completely pitch black. Then I heard a noise "Arther" shouted his wife. "What's up" I asked, she didn't say anything back. "Arther" she shouted, "whats wrong" I asked, she didn't respond.

She kept shouting my name but nothing else. I was confused about what was going on. Then I thought this was maybe a prank or some sort of joke. The noise was coming from downstairs, so I went to check. Slowly I walked down the creaky stairs and stepped into the basement.

Then I heard a loud crash, the vent door fell off. At this point I knew my wife was messing with me so I called her. After a few rings she answered and told me that she wasn't home.

I dropped the phone in fear, if that's not her then who is it I thought. Then all of a sudden a pale, skinny figure bursts through the vent, I screamed and raced up the stairs, it kept calling my name and was getting closer and closer. I sprinted for my room and slammed the door shut.

The creature kept banging and banging on the door. I reached into my pocket for my phone to call help but then remembered I left it in the basement. It was starting to break through the door.

At this point I didn't know what to do until The Monster suddenly stopped banging "hello I'm home" She shouted, It was my wife. "Come help me please". Moments later I heard a knock on the door.

"Open the door" she asked, I walked over and twisted the door handle and opened the door but it wasn't her it was the monster. "AHHHHHH" I screamed as the Monster cournerd me in the back of the room. I tried to think of something but it's too late and I'm ready to give up.

I leaned on the wall in defeat but then heard something CLICK!, it was the light switch, the light emerged from the lamp burning the monster's skin "AHHHHH" screamed the Monster as its body drifted away. I felt relieved that the Monster was gone.

I didn't go to sleep that night, when my wife got home I told her what happened and she called the police after. They told me that I was just houlsinating and it was just a bear. I know it was real and even the whole town doesn't believe me. But I know I saw a Monster called ATHENA.

THE END

The Eel of Wisdom

By Conor Kane

In The River Lock, there was a magic eel called the Eel of Wisdom. It was said that anyone who eats the eel would become the wisest person in Ireland. Brian was a poet who lived near River Lock, where he made poems. He was one of the wisest men in Ireland. He always wanted to catch the legendary Eel of Wisdom, he always went fishing and tried to catch the eel, but had no luck.

One day a yogi warrior called Fin came to live with Brian for a few days. Fin didn't know about the famous myth of The Eel of Wisdom. Brian would go fishing for days trying to catch the eel. One day Fin asked Brian why he would go fishing for so long to catch nothing. Brian would just smile but didn't answer.

One Summer's morning Fin heard Brian shout and then heard an enormous splash. Brian caught an eel, but was it the right one. It was a beautiful fish, the sun glittered on its gold fins. Brian immediately knew he had caught The Eel Of Wisdom.

Brian was very tired after the struggle with the fish so he told Fin to cook it, but he warned him to never eat the fish, not even a nibble. Fin made a fire to cook the Eel, but when he was turning it, the hot skin burned his thumb. He quickly put his thumb into his mouth to stop the pain.

When Fin brought the fish to Brian, Brian looked deep into Fin's eyes. Something was wrong. Brian asked "did you have any of my fish!?" Fin told him he hadn't, but then he remembered he had burnt his thumb and put it in his mouth. Brian knew at once that Fin had the wisdom of the Eel of Wisdom. Brian was very sad, he knew he would never be the wisest man in Ireland, but he was happy for Fin. Soon afterwards Fin left Brian. Fin went on to become the leader of Fianna and the greatest warrior they had ever seen.

Pho's adventure

By Seb Farrel

On an island a long time in the past, called Lapetode island, something unexpected was going to happen, something very unexpected. What on Earth is going on? It's an earthquake! Pho thought differently. This isn't a normal earthquake; the volcano caused this monstrosity. It can't be the volcano hasn't moved in 4000000000000 years Pho can't even count that high. But why would it move now? Ok, Pho thought to himself, he needed to explore the volcano. But how long will it take him? He lives in a treetop tribe and the volcano is near mountain dwellers. How will he get there and will the volcano erupt before he gets there? Can he save Lapetode or will it burn down in a thousand fiery hells? He has to start soon. But there was one problem. PHO!!!! He had to have breakfast [10 hours later] finally he could start packing. He packed a rope, food, water, sleeping bag, pillow, his lucky charm, clothes, chalk and a staff (tree top tribe) weapon. Mountain dwellers have their weapons as well. Pho set off to stop the volcano.

What on Earth is going on? Another earthquake, this time it was stronger and swept him off his feet. This earthquake was much stronger. But Pho had a plan, he jumped from tree to tree timing every shake of the earthquake, this earthquake went on for 10 MINUTES. He was very tired when it stopped but he soon realised he was over halfway there. It was night time and Pho was hungry, very hungry. He hunted down a wild cow, cooked it and ate it. He had trouble going to sleep that night. He was scared. The next morning he started scaling the mountain, that's where the chalk and rope came in handy. He was so close to getting to the mountain dwellers' tribe. When he got there he was so tired that he fainted.

Pho woke up, what on Earth, what time is it? Ok, time to climb to the top of the mount...tain, what how he was at the top of the mountain. He stared up at the volcano and said, "time to stop this beast!" Swoop, a bird made of fire swooped past Pho. I have never seen a creature like this. I will name it Phoenix. The Phoenix said, "the volcano will erupt very soon."

Boom! The volcano erupted, but they had a plan and they could maybe win. Molten rock and ash started spewing out of the volcano. The Phoenix started the fight by blocking all the lava whilst pho was trying to climb to the top of the volcano. The sky went all red and you couldn't see Pho or the Phoenix. Lava was flowing everywhere. Then out of nowhere, the phoenix started glowing, energy flowing through its body. It was amazing. They had a chance to save Lapetode.

The Phoenix started destroying all the ash and pushing back all the lava they were winning. Then boom the Phoenix stopped glowing and fell to the ground. Pho just sat on the ground because he thought he had lost. but the phoenix entered his mind and started controlling him. He was pushing back the lava with his hands.

What? [Pho opened his eyes] there's no more lava or ash or rock. The phoenix was alive too and again, no more lava! They had won. Pho hopped on the phoenix and they flew back to the treetop tribe where Pho lived. "PHO WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN!?", they cried. "Uhh playing outside..." "AND WHO IS THIS!?" "It's the Phoenix that I went with to save Lapetode." "You and your imagination... come back in here, it's time for supper."

The end

Pu-Bang

By Freddy

Bang! BOOM! The island's going to blow! RUN! You're probably wondering what is happening right now... well let's start from the beginning. Long ago but maybe in the future, there was a lonely pug, he had no friends and his mum and dad died in an accident so he had to live on the streets. This is how the story starts...

One day this pug was sitting in this alley when all of a sudden two people came, they first greeted themselves but the pug said to go away, but they didn't. The people help him up, the pug wasn't feeling well though, but he trusted them, then they greeted themselves again "so what's your name?" The pug looked at them and said "my name is Jojo." They looked at each other and shrugged "Uhm ok? We'll call you Pugsly because you're a pug, get it! Is that ok?" The pug agreed "Pugsly sounds like a great name!" "Great! Well, do you want to come with us? Were go home if you want to come?" said the two animals. Pugsly said, "Yeah sure I'll come!" So on that day, the three animals went home.

When they got there, Pugsly realised that he didn't ask what the other guys' names were. "Hey guys, I forgot to ask what your names are?" They looked at each other and said "My name is Bob, and I'm a giraffe and I really like to eat food! I'm Zara and you have already probably guessed what type of animal I am, I'm an elephant!" Later that day they were playing upstairs when all of a sudden there was an earthquake but it wasn't like any ordinary earthquake, only the building that they were in was shaking, then out of nowhere, this massive hole came through the floor! Later this person came out, he was very small but he started to chuckle evilly! Smoke dust! You couldn't see anything, swish swoosh! "You really thought you had friends, PUGSLY!" said the mysterious voice then he jumped down the hole "Weeeeeeeee!" went the mysterious voice. Pugsly was confused and did not know what just happened. Pugsly looked down the hole but while he did he looked around the room, nothing to be seen, just dust and an enormous hole, he was wondering why that just happened, why did he take Zara and bob? Pugsly also heard when the mysterious voice said "You really thought you had friends." Then he chuckled away for some creepy reason. What did he mean? Pugsly has no friends? He just made some friends just a few hours ago! But, well they were my friends... unless!?

While Pugsly was still thinking about what happened to Zara and Bob, Zara and Bob were in for a real treat. "So you're saying that we're going to be blown into the sky, attached to a rocket then go to the core of the world and get blown up, and this disease will come out from the rocket!? I mean that would be a cool boss story, but still, why are you doing this ZIAC!?" Ziac chuckled and said "well you remember in 1920 you were bullying people and teasing the gods? Well, that's going to pay off today! Still, I can't believe you actually thought that you could still make friends! HA, you guys NEVER learn!” Zara and Bob didn’t listen to Ziac though. While Zara and Bob were tied to crates getting ready to go into a rocket ship that travels to the centre of the world and blows up with this terrible disease that gets exposed to the world. Ziac was getting his master plan ready in a day and then he will be crowned king of the world!

Pugsly is now getting ready to go on the biggest adventure of his life, this adventure might takes days or weeks! But it will pay off! “I will now sail to the other side of the room!!” Pugsly began his trip. Pugsly had no idea what happened to Zara and Bob but he does know that he is in a house for the first time in like forever! BEEP BOP BOOP SCREECH! It was coming from the hole. Everything stopped Pugsly just thought and remembered that his friends are in trouble and that this man came and animal napped them, it doesn’t matter about getting to the other side anymore, it matters about saving his friends! So now he is going to set off for a big adventure but this time it is a very real adventure it might take a minute or two but he will take the chances!

Pugsly finally arrives after a day to get there but the good thing is that he made it, but the bomb has already been turned on so there 1 minute left! Pugsly immediately ran the opposite way, he said to himself “NO NO NO! Your friends are in trouble I need to help them!” So he ran to the bomb and cut his friends out with his claws and immediately ran to the helicopter section and took one helicopter with some keys in it. Zara wanted to call it lam helicopter because it looks like a fluffy piece of lam Pugsly said “no time to waste Zara!” And Bob pulled Zara in the helicopter and they flew so fast out of the base that the bomb just blew out of reach! BOOM! The helicopter went flying in circles and eventually came back to its normal flying position. Now they had to get Ziac. They finally caught up to him and Pugsly jumped out of the helicopter, knocked Ziac out and safely landed onto the helicopter. Later on that year there was a bad disease the world had experienced but they learned how to help everyone go through it all.

The moral of the story is to treat people the way you want to be treated.

The Dinosaur Evolution

By Max Lee

Many hundreds of thousands of years ago, lived two brothers (Big Greeny & Bobasaurus) in a cold mountain in Russia, where it seemed as though the mountain would always be moving. Big Greeny and Bobasaurus were born before the world split up into countries. Now, Bobasaurus, a brown, tall, generally angry dinosaur, would never listen to his brother Big Greeny, a happy, green, cheerful dinosaur. You see Bobasaurus would always cherish and listen to his brother until his parents died in a storm when Big green gave them advice to go to the eye of the cyclone. So they did but they were devoured by the big boy of all cyclones. It was as grey as soot, it was as tall as 20 giraffes stacked together but most of all it had winds of which were the speed of light.

Ever since “the incident” Bobasaurus has never been the same in that he would never listen or trust anyone or even talk to anyone (he would rarely talk to Big Greeny). Ever since “the incident” Big Greeny has also had feelings he was always so lonely and would always be thinking of his parents and was wishing for company. He was so lonely that he felt like the only dinosaur in the world some days. The two brothers decided that this was enough and that it was time to move. Later that night Big Greeny called a meeting (of which was made up of stuffed toys and Bobosaurus) “I hear by declaring we are moving tomorrow” “and that's final!”

For several long harsh days the brothers travelled on unknown paths and land some of which were scorching hot and some of which were like a tropical holiday until, eventually they found a nice cosy cave in the middle of a forest. The forest that the brothers settled in was one of which had rare birds and deadly snakes. The first night in a while they were actually sleeping in a safe place. But there was always something to complain about “I want water blue, glimmering, cold, water” , complained Bobasaurus then POP nice blue, glimmering, cold, water pooped out of the sky from nowhere. “WHAT!” exclaimed Big Greeny “you can make things on command?” asked Big Greeny “I guess so” replied Bobasaurus. Big Greeny was thinking of so many possibilities he could for once not be lonely!

Big Greeny was just hoping that his brother would let him have his dream. So the next morning as soon as they woke up Big Greeny asked, “Can I please have another being on this earth as my one wish?” “No, simply No we don't need anyone else.” “Ok, I understand” replied Big Greeny but really he was furious and outraged but he had to hide it. After that day they did not talk at all and soon after (1 year) they arrived in a place called Africa.

Before long Big Greeny became jealous and fed up with the powers that Bobasaur ‘s had. So late one night big Greeny heads out of their straw hut and on a voyage to get the strongest, mightiest army that he could find. Big Greeny went to a town called Trunano and he stayed there in the town to get the people's trust. Before long he had obtained the trust of the townspeople. He gathered an army of the best from throughout the land the strongest, mightiest army.

The army that Big Greeny gathered started the long voyage back to the hay hut and the town that the brothers had created. Meanwhile Bobasaurus had been predicting the things that Big Greeny had been going through the time that he had been gone. Bobasaurus was worried and aswell left home for a couple of hours to find a small great army just in case he was right. Often Big Greeny would travel and he would be wondering what he would be doing while he was away. On the voyage Big Greeny's tribe was becoming cautious every step that they took closer; they strategically moved into Bobasaurus' territory. Out of nowhere Bobasaurus screamed "CHARGE" and Bobasaurus's team ran out of the surrounding trees. "CHARGE" announced Big Greeny both the armies ran out and fought but Big Greeny's army was 10 times larger. Of course Big Greeny's team one and after they defeated them the army went straight to Bobasaurus and he exclaimed while they were attacking him "please I am dying" "Ok, stop" commanded Big Greeny so the army stopped. "I will only stop if you give me something" asked Big Greeny "Ok, ok" replied "I want another being on this earth". Within 5 days Bobasaurus had healed fully and it was time to grant Big Greeny's wish. "I wish for another being on this earth" announced Bobasaurus.

"We shall call him human and human shall help us and provide us with comfort." said Big Greeny. It turns out that Bobasaurus actually liked human and he loved that he helped a lot!

Moral: listen to other people's ideas and try them and you might actually like them.